POWER OF THE PALATE: VIRTUAL COCKTAIL COMPETITION

APRIL 2022 - SEPTEMBER 2022

Power of the Palate, is the official Black Restaurant Week cocktail competition. It is a spirits and mixed drink themed competition featuring the top black craft bartenders around the nation.

This year Black Restaurant Week is hosting a national virtual cocktail competition to find out which city has the best bartender in the nation.

The Power of the Palate competition is organized into four rounds:

ROUND 1: RECIPE SUBMISSION (APRIL 2022 - JUNE 1, 2022)

Participants will submit their cocktail recipe and a video of them performing a demonstration of their cocktail via Black Restaurant Week website. The cocktail recipe must use Maker's Mark as the base spirit. The committee consisting of Black Restaurant Week and Makers Mark will review submissions and select the three (3) to six (6) most innovative recipes to compete in the city qualifiers round.

ROUND 2: CITY QUALIFIERS (JUNE 2022 - JULY 2022)

The top three (3) to six (6) recipe submissions per city will participate in a live in a competition in their city. The top bartender will advance to the National Cocktail Competition.

ROUND 3: ORIENTATION (AUGUST 2021)

The selected 18 bartenders will attend a virtual orientation to learn more about Maker's Mark and the live competition.

ROUND 4: NATIONAL COMPETITION (SEPTEMBER 2021)

The selected 18 bartenders will compete live in Chicago at the national competition. The audience will select their favorite cocktail during the tasting experience. The top 4 bartenders will advance to the Semi-final Round.

The selected 4 bartenders will compete live in Chicago on stage for special guest judges. Bartenders will be challenged to create a different cocktail for a new theme. They will be judged on drink presentation, understanding flavor profiles, and overall personality.

The top 2 bartenders selected by the special judges will compete for the national title with the mystery box challenge.
